THE CITY LIBRARY is being removed into the commodious and accessible room on the first floor back of Simpson's bank, on Henry street. In these new quarters, and with a fine lot of new books, and the accomplished Mrs. Trask to preside over it, we may predict new and increased usefulness for the library. We are sorry to see that Leavenworth has allowed her mercantile library to be sold under the sheriff's hammer. It is a pity. A good public library is one of the best educational forces a community can have. Every dollar expended on it is money well invested. May the Lawrence library have a long lease of life and growth.
