THE 125th ANNIVERSARY of Quantrill raid of Lawrence

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE CITY OF LAWRENCE, KANSAS, AND THE MASSACRE OF ITS INHABITANTS BY THE REBEL GUERRILLAS, AUGUST 21, 1862.—(SEE PAGE 564.)

125th Anniversary of Quantrill's
Raid-- August 21, 1863

This year marks the 125th anniversary of a murderous raid on Lawrence by a group of guerillas led by William Clarke Quantrill. On the morning of August 21, 1863 Quantrill and his band of raiders, numbering about three-hundred, entered Lawrence and murdered an estimated 150 men--wounding thirty others. Not only did the band kill nearly every man they found but they burned many homes and much of the business district of the town.

William Clarke Quantrill Was Charlie Hart When He Lived in Lawrence.

For years there had been violent confrontations between the "jayhawkers" and the "bushwacker's"--between proslavery and abolitionists. So a raid by this pro-slavery group against the "free-state" town of Lawrence was not altogether unexpected. In fact, in the three months prior to the raid the city had been on the alert for just such an attack. By August 21st, however, the town had relaxed its vigilance and was unprepared to defend itself when the raiders entered Lawrence about dawn.

Quantrill was no stranger to Lawrence. A few years earlier he had lived there under the name of "Charlie Hart." Most residents of the town knew him as a school teacher, but he apparently spent some of his time as a kind of "double agent" who freed slaves in Missouri and elsewhere, took them to an abolitionist house in the Lawrence area and then got a bounty by telling the pro-slavery authorities where to find them.

With inside knowledge of the political leanings of the men of Lawrence, Quantrill had instructed his men before they entered town exactly which men he wanted killed. But the drunken raiders often shot indiscriminately despite the pleas of the victims and their families.

After the dead were buried, the citizens of Lawrence began rebuilding their town. Today Lawrence is a prosperous and thriving city. Few realize that only 125 years ago the entire town lay in ashes. Because the people of Lawrence would not give in to their grief, but instead began the difficult job of rebuilding their town, tribute was paid to them a few years ago when a city seal was adopted in which a phoenix is shown rising up from the ashes.

Many stories of the atrocities of the raid and of the herorism of the victims and their families have been passed down in writing. On the following page is one such story--that of Rev. Hugh Fisher who was saved from the guerillas by his wife's ingenuity.

A CHAPLAIN SAVED FROM THE QUERRILAS BY HIS HEROIC WIFE:

Rev. Hugh Fisher's Account of His Experience During the Quantrill Raid of Lawrence Given at a Church Conference in 1874.

(From Reminiscences of Quantrell's Raid by John C. Shea (1879)
Courtesy of Watkins Community Museum, Lawrence, Kansas.

"...After some preliminary remarks, Dr. Fisher began the story. He said: 'I was always an anti-slavery man of the most 'anti' kind, and after I moved to Kansas, without any prominence having been given to my sentiments by myself, I found myself the object of the most vindictive hatred of the pro-slavery party of the region where I resided. My life was unsuccessfully sought several times. When the war broke out I went as a chaplain. Most of the male members of my church went to the war, and I went as one of Jim Lane's chaplains. The news of my connection with the army, and of my being put in charge of contrabands who were sent to Kansas, got abroad, and the rebels hated me worse than ever. They got my photograph and distributed it throughout the country, and it was fixed among them that I was to be shot whenever met. armory, and there was an understanding with the farmers of the surrounding country that upon the ringing of an alarm they should come in to defend the town, but the coming of Quantrell and his men was a complete surprise. When the alarm was rung the arsenal was already captured and on fire.

HUGH DUNN FISHER

I was in bed, and heard, about 3 o'clock in the morning, horses galloping very rapidly away, and woke my wife, telling her that it was singular that horses should be galloping so fast so early in the morning; but she said it was some farmers who had been into a railroad meeting the evening before, and were hurrying back to their work. We lay and talked for some time. The children were going on that morning to get some grapes and my wife thought she would call them earlier than usual, and herein, brethren, I see the hand of Providence. It was not yet daylight, but day was dawning. Having called the children, she went and looked out of the front door, and instantly called me: 'Pa, the rebels are in town.' I said that could not be; but, nevertheless I sprang from the bed and ran to the door.

There they were just across the green and just then they shot the United Brethren preacher as he was milking his cow in his barnyard. I rushed back into the house; my wife caught up her babe; I have four boys; one was on my wife's breast, another was by her side and the two oldest were twelve or fourteen years old. We all rushed up the lot in which our house stood. Then I left my wife and with the two oldest boys ran up the hill, but something seemed to tell me that I was running away from safety. So I told the boys to run on and I would go back to mother...My boys separated, the oldest getting with a neighbor's boy, Robert Winston, and while the two were running for life, the soldiers saw them and fired a volley, killing poor Bobby and frightening my boy almost to death. He ran off and hid among some graves in the grave yard. My younger son ran off on the prairie.

In fixing my cellar, I had thrown up a bank of earth near the entrance and I crept down there and laid myself between the mounds of earth and the wall in such a way that the earth would partly screen me. I lay up close to the kitchen door. I had not been there long when four of Quantrell's men rode up to the house and demanded admittance. My wife went to the front door and let them in. They demanded whether I was not in the house or in the cellar. She replied: 'My husband and two older boys ran off as soon as the fighting began.' The leader swore that he knew I was in the cellar. My wife replied that she had two young children by her, and that she did not want any more oaths uttered before them. 'You have doubted my word,' she replied; 'you can look for yourselves.' I lay so near the floor that I could hear every word that was said. The men called for a candle.

My wife replied that we did not burn candles. Then they wanted a lantern, but she said we hadn't any. They asked then, with an oath, what we did for a light. She replied that we burned kerosene in a lamp. then they called for a lamp, and my wife had to get it, but the men in their eagerness to light it, turned the wick down into the oil. Failing to light it themselves, they called upon my wife to light it.

'Why, you have ruined the lamp,' said she, 'It can't be lighted with the wick down in the oil.' 'Haven't you another lamp?' said they. 'Yes, there's one upstairs,' said she, and they then ordered her to go and get it. 'Gentlemen,' said she, 'I can't do it, your rudeness has so frightened me that I can scarcely hold my babe.' One of the men then offered to hold it for her, and took it from her arms. My poor wife then went and got the lamp, which they lighted and started on their search. They all cocked their revolvers and passed the word to kill at sight, and started for the cellar. I laid myself as flat as I could be, and turned my face to the wall, for I knew my face was thinnest from ear to ear. The light came to the door.

"I tell you brethren,
I just quit living!"

I tell you brethren I just quit living...I stood then before the judgement seat. I was a dead man. My heart ceased to beat. I already stood before my Judge. Brethren, what could I do, but just trust myself to the Lord?

The man who carried the light was tall and providentially stooped so low in entering the cellar, that the light shining against the bank of earth threw a shadow over me. They searched the cellar, but did not find me...My wife afterwards told me that when the men went down cellar, she took her babe and went into the parlor and stood there holding her hand against one ear and her babe against the other expecting every moment to hear the report of the revolvers in the cellar, announcing the death of her husband.

The soldiers set fire to the house in several places and leaving one of their number to prevent my wife from putting it out, departed...My wife then came to me and asked me whether it was all right between me and God. 'I am afraid they will come back and kill you yet, and it will be the greatest comfort to know that you felt prepared to die.' I told her that I was prepared to die. Telling me to pray, she left me. It was not long before another party of Quantrell's men came and in drunken tones...demanded to know whether I was in the house.

'Do you suppose,' said my wife, 'that he would stay there and you shooting and burning all over town? No; he left this morning as soon as the firing commenced and unless some of you have shot him and killed him outside, he is safe. Some of your men were here this morning and searched the house. However, you may look for yourselves.'

In this she bluffed them. They set fire to the house and left one who drew his revolver on my wife and said he would kill her if she tried to put it out. He stayed until the house was so far consumed that there was no possibility of saving it.

My wife pulled up a carpet, and in taking it to the yard, dropped it accidentally by the door. My wife was afraid and so was I, that I would be burned alive, for I had no thought of doing anything but what my wife told me. The floor was on fire almost over me and the flames were creeping nearer. My wife stood and threw water, pail after pail on the floor and was doing this when a neighbor, a Catholic woman said: 'Why, Mrs. Fisher, what are you doing? What good will it be to save that floor? Besides, you can't save it.'

'I don't care what good it will do' replied my wife, 'I am going to keep on wetting that floor.' But finally, when she saw she could not save it, she asked the neighbor whether she could keep a secret. She then swore her by the Virgin Mary never to reveal it. 'Well, then,' said my wife, 'my husband is under that floor.'

The soldiers were still everywhere, shooting and burning and the air was filled with the shrieks of wounded and dying men, the wailings of widows and orphans and the sound of falling buildings. My wife then called me to come out and threw a dress over my shoulder. The two women picked up the carpet and I crawled under it between them and so we proceeded to a small bush about four feet high in the yard.

There my wife saw four soldiers ready to fire. They were not a hundred yards off...I slunk under the bush and they threw the carpet over me.

'Save the chairs!' cried my wife; and they rushed to where the chairs were piled close to the burning building and ran with them and flung them carelessly upon me and piled up all that was saved of our household goods about me. The soldiers evidently thought the pile only a lot of household furniture, and left it unmolested. I stayed there till two hours after they left and then gathered my wife and my four children--for the two boys had come back--and in the garden we knelt and thanked God for deliverance. Brethren you don't know what it is to be thankful.'

MRS. RANKIN'S HUSBAND SHOT BY RAIDERS

From: Lawrence Booster Book; 1913.

Mrs. Mary (CARPENTER) RANKIN of Quenemo, Kansas wrote in 1913:

"We were living on Rhode Island Street in a house just finished and had been married ten months. When two of the raiders called at our house and saw my husband, they fired a shot at him and after his race through the yard they fired a second shot. Of what passed around us I know and remember nothing, until I sat beside the body of my husband and saw him in a rude coffin and laid away in a corner of our yard."

QUANTRILL RAID SURVIVOR--Mrs. J.B. Sutliff, 1926 7th Ave. West, Seattle, Washington.

"My husband was not killed, he being away on business and our home was not burned. I saw Mr. GRIFFITH and told him to run to the ravine. He reached it and saved his life. I had to warn Mrs. GRIFFITH to keep away from him. I can hear the pounding of nails yet, for Ira BROWN and Hiram TOWNE made coffins for two nights in their shop just across the alley from my home."

Women Bring In Munition Supply

Ingenuity Outwits Pro-Slavery Guards Surrounding Lawrence

Authorities on the history of Douglas county state that four attempts were made by men to get word to Lawrence warning them of the coming of Quantrill and all of those attempts failed, whether by degree of fate or by eagerness which failed to take full account of circumstances that might arise.

The attempts may have failed because the pioneer women were not called on to use their ingenuity and initiative, so displayed during several incidents in saving lives of men and their homes during the Quantrill Raid, and the border wars.

Such ingenuity furnished powder and shot for the defenders of Lawrence, when in December of 1855, hordes of Missourians were camped two or three miles from Lawrence and had pickets around the city. Every man was needed for the defense of the city against an attack expected hourly. The bravery of two women allowed every man to be used for the defense and at the same time the necessary ammunition was provided.

Mrs. S. N. Woods and Mrs. Lois H. Brown were the women who secured the ammunition from the farm of Mrs. Brown's father, and from the home of Major Abbot who had powder, shot and Sharps rifles, sent by friends in New York and Boston buried in a trunk on his claim.

On December 8, 1855, Mrs. Brown was calling at the home of Mrs. S. N. Wood. General Lane came in and said, "I do not know what we shall do - we have no ammunition not even enough to make a show of defense."

Mrs. Brown said that her father had a bag of powder out on his farm and that she would go after it and asked Mrs. Woods to go with her. Mrs. Woods consented and arrangements were made to go the next morning. A large work basket, a medicinal book and knitting were taken by Mrs. Brown.

Sam Gleason, the father of Mrs. Brown, lived several miles south of Lawrence at Mud Springs on the Santa Fe road. When Mrs. Brown reached the home of Mrs. Woods she found Captain J. E. Stewart who lived a mile on the other side of the Wakarusa getting ready to go out to bring some ammunition buried there, brought into the territory by Mr. Abott with Sharps rifles secured by friends in Boston and New York.

Captain Stewart and (blank) have some twelve or fourteen men to go with him. He had what was then known as a cracky wagon. General Lane coming up at the time, Mrs. Brown said: "It will not be necessary for Mrs. Woods and me to go for the powder at father's." General Lane said: "No, You are going."

Turning to Captain Stewart he said: "By what authority do you take these men out of this place just at this time when we are expecting an attack every hour. These women will bring it safer than you can with all these men."

Captain Stewart helped them in and gave Mrs. Brown the reins. The guard accompanied them to the edge of town and turned back.

The women drove out to Blanton's Bridge. After passing that a mile they noticed two men or scouts watching them closely. The halter came down and Mrs. Brown got up to put it up. The men turned off and paid no further attention to the women. A mile or two further on they met two men on foot. Mrs. Brown turned to them and inquired how far it was to a Mr. Bayes', a pro-slavery neighbor.

After getting the direction the women drove on. Later they stopped to pick up a whiskey flask which they thought might be well to have filled with milk. Soon after arriving at the home of Mrs. Brown's father, Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Brown had dinner. Two pillow slips were borrowed and a small keg of powder emptied into them. The women arranged them under their dresses like bustles.

From the Gleason home they drove to Mr. Abbott's where the ammunition was buried with a half keg of powder in an old trunk. This was adjusted with the help of Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Woods tying some of it around her person.

The caps, cartridges, bullet molds and gun wipers, the women put up their sleeves and in their pockets. The bars of lead were stood up in their stockings. Three packages the women could not take were given to Howard Dickson, a boy, who was going to Lawrence to help in the erection of fortifications. He was driving a pair of oxen which were to be used in throwing up the earthworks.

Owing to the heavy weight of the powder and lead the women could not get into the buggy. Mrs. Abbott and Dickson assisted them.

After crossing the Wakarusa they noticed that they were closely watched. "There, Mrs. Woods, they are coming," Mrs. Brown said.

A man stopped them. "Excuse me, ladies, we thought you were men. We have orders to let no man pass this road to Lawrence."

The women drove on slowly.

In back rode a man partly dismounted, with one foot on the stirrup, ready to fire on the women. The man coming to the buggy and seeing nothing suspicious, if a milk bottle and a work basket could seem suspicious, went back to a companion down the road then back to the boy driving the oxen. They searched him and found nothing.

Mrs. Brown drove her horse slowly and feigned indifference, then drove rapidly.

They found the men waiting anxiously for them. Cheer after cheer greeted the women as they drove up. It was then that they learned that Thomas Barber had been shot while attempting to get out of his home, some five or six miles from Lawrence. He was brought in and laid out in the Free-state Hotel, full of life and hope on the beautiful morning when he left.

The wind blew a perfect gale from the north before morning and blew down the tents of the pro-slavery men so they struck their tents and left.

JIM LANE SAVED BY DISGUISE

From: Lawrence Booster Book, 1913

Mrs. D.L. KRETSINGER, daughter of Wm. BRASS wrote one of her memories of Quantrill's Raid:

"I had gone to Lawrence that week to attend school, boarding with John SHIMMONS and rooming with his daughter, Nellie YOUNG. Jim LANE came over. He hurriedly put on one of my dresses and a sun bonnet and assisted us in carrying food out of the house. He was not recognized as a boy and I have always felt that his disguise saved his life. I think I can safely say that I also saved a Mr. EATON's life."

QUANTRILL RAID SURVIVOR--Laura HELLSTROM, R.F.D. 8, Lawrence.

"I was working at Sutliff's tailor shop and boarding with a family by the name of LETTER. My father and brother were working at the Wind Mill which was then under construction. My father was shot twice, but survived. His name was L. JOHNSON and he had lived here since 1857. My husband, Rudolph HELLSTROM came to Lawrence about noon and helped to clear the debris."

DATA OF FRIENDS (QUAKERS) MONTHLY MEETINGS
AT LAWRENCE, KANSAS

1869-1935

Data was extracted from Micro-film copies of Monthly Meeting Minutes kept in the Archives of Mid-America Yearly Meeting, reposing in the Friends University Library, Wichita, Kansas.

The film, in some cases, was not as clear as desirable, the penmanship displayed differences in skill and design and the reading not always above question.

The spelling of names was not consistent but from this point in time it is hazardous to guess which is preferred so the original was copied as faithfully as possible.

When the word "birth, born, died, death" is the first word in the data column the date in the date column is the birth or death date. Otherwise the date signifies the date of the entry in the minute book.

There were discrepancies as to date (generally one month) as the Men's meeting and the Women's meeting did not always deal with a given item at the same time.

The extracting was limited to microfilmed data so more work will need to be done in the future.

The minutes contain a wealth of information and inspiration that is only hinted at in these abstracts.

 DALE Need all the help I can get on my great-grandfather, Joseph HUFF DALE, married Margaret HUFF and had a son Henry born 1861.
 HAGERDORN Henry DALE came with people named HAGERDORN to Scotts Mills, Oregon when only 8 or 9 years old. Census says Joseph born in Ky., Margaret born in Ks. and Henry born in Ky. Where were Joseph DALE and Margaret HUFF married?

BRAVE WOMEN SAVE MR. WINCHELL FROM RAIDERS

From: A History of Lawrence, by Rev. Richard Cordley.

"The women of Lawrence always proved themselves heroes when the occasion presented itself." Rev. Cordley told of the following incident:

"...Mr. WINCHELL...ran into the house of Dr. Charles REYNOLDS, formerly rector of the Episcopal church. The doctor was away from home, a chaplain in the army. Mrs. Reynolds and two other ladies were in the house. They at once set their wits at work to devise a plan for saving Mr. Winchell in case the raiders came to the house. They finally hit upon a plan which proved successful. Getting a razor they shaved off the man's whiskers, put a lady's wrapper over him, and tied an old woman's cap on his head. They then placed him in an invalid chair with a stand beside it, covered with cups and spoons and medicine bottles. One of the ladies sat by his side fanning him. This was to be their 'Aunt Betsie,' very ill. It was not long before a band of the raiders came in. The ladies bade them take anything they could find, but begged them to be as quiet as possible, so as not to disturb 'Poor Aunt Betsie.' They helped themselves to what they wanted, looked suspiciously several times at the invalid chair, but finally went away without disturbing the poor invalid."
