GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY BEGINS NEW PROJECT: Index of Obituaries and Death Notices from 1864-1891 Newspapers

by Paul Jordan

In my function as "Genealogist" (responding to requests sent to the Society for family data), I am often asked for copies of obituaries. Often the requestor assumes we have a complete file of obituaries, as I suppose many genealogical societies do. During my searches I have found several different files and indexes for different time periods in different places, so I made a list of those available and will put a copy of it in the Osma Room at the Lawrence City Library and will give copies to the Watkins Community Museum and other libraries.

The available obituary files and indexes are nearly complete for about 1978-1997, but the coverage of earlier years is spotty. Naturally the requests we are receiving are for much earlier times, and the 1978-1997 obituaries won't be in demand until many decades from now. We have determined that what is most needed now is information for 1864-1891. Rather than making copies of the obituaries and death notices from those newspapers, we will prepare an index so the information can be looked up in the newspaper when needed. We will index the newspapers that are on microfilm in the Lawrence City Library, which are only Lawrence papers. Our goal is to complete the index in a year's time.

There are 49 spools of microfilm containing about 10,000 newspapers for 1864-1891. I have timed myself at copying data for indexing onto a worksheet, and calculate that a person could work through a maximum of 40 newspapers an hour (many issues of the old newspapers contain no obituaries or death notices). In addition to the 250 or more hours of this work, numerous hours will be required to keyboard the data into a database program which will then put the index into alphabetical order by surname. The index will then be printed onto acid-free paper and bound between covers.

So far we have seven workers on this project, and we need a few more in order to complete the project within the year. If you live in or near Lawrence or Topeka (where the microfilms are) and would like to help, please call Paul Jordan at 785-842-4388. I will provide worksheets to make the work go as quickly and efficiently as possible.

Osma Room to be expanded

Included in the budget for the Lawrence Public Library, which was approved in January, is $20,000 for enlargement of the Helen Osma Room which is the Genealogy Library. It will double the size of the room.

Plans being discussed include removing the glass wall from the door east to the wall and repositioning it going north to the stair well. The north wall of the room will be even with the north side of the stairwell so the room will be L-shaped.

One of the changes will be that there will no longer be a locked door into the room. The three groups that have materials in the room, DAR, LPL and the Society agreed that it was not necessary to have the room locked. There will still be a reference librarian at the desk and the glass wall will allow visual surveillance at all times.

The Society will be able to house the Lawrence Abstracts in the room and discussion is proceeding about this process. As background, the Worleys were given many abstracts by an abstract company here in Lawrence. Shelley Hickman Clark, a past president of the Society, has indexed all of them by legal description. We will be able to have all these in the Helen Osma Room for researchers to use.

This remodeling should begin by summer. Then we'll need help in moving the collections.

It is an exciting development and the Society is grateful to the staff of the library for recognizing the importance of the room. Any chance you get tell the library of your appreciation.

REBECCA BROOKS HARVEY

"Rebecca Brooks Harvey was born in slavery in North Carolina (she did not know when nor where nor the name of her Mother.) Why? because as a baby she was given as a chattel for a debt one man owed another. The creditors took the baby for the debt and gave her to the Brooks lady to raise. The name of Rebecca was given the child."

"In rearing their children, our parents taught obedience at home, in school and to the laws of the state."

"Father told us on leaving home for school, learn, behave and tend to your own business. Mother being a devout Christian added prayer."

CENSUS INDEXES FOR KANSAS, 1855-1925

Researchers of Kansas data are fortunate that censuses are available for every fifth year from 1855 to 1925, with the exception of 1890. Censuses are also available for 1856-1858 and 1859. All of these censuses are available to us here in Lawrence, most of them in Hays, 1900 and 1910 in Manhattan, and a few parts in Pittsburg, at the State university libraries -- but indexes are not available there. For indexes we can go to Topeka, or for some of them we can use interlibrary loan.

The Kansas State Historical Society research library in Topeka has numerous indexes as well as each actual census for all of Kansas. The following information about their indexes is copied from a Historical Society pamphlet, Kansas Census Indexes 1855-1925, printed in February 1995, and other information obtained from the Historical Society in March 1997. The indexes are for all of Kansas unless otherwise specified.

The information that follows is taken from the Index to the Laws of Kansas. It comprises all general, special and private acts contained in the original authorized editions of the laws from the organization of the Territory of Kansas, in 1855, to the close of the 17th Annual Session of the State Legislature in 1877. It was compiled and published by J.D. Shaffer of the Leavenworth Bar in 1877. Kansas Statutes can be found in most public libraries and certainly in all law libraries. The complete set of statutes will be found in the University of Kansas Law Library located on the campus of the University. It is open to everyone. Ask a librarian for the location of the statutes.

There is a great deal of information of interest to genealogists in statutes. Some of the better items appear under Personal heading in the index. These can include "rights restored to", "divorces", "rights conferred upon", "name changes" to mention just a few. A few examples will be given of the kind of information which is available and then the listing of names under the heading Personal in the index.

Heading: Engle, Carrie Ella Louise, changed to Carrie Ladd Armstrong.....1873, 200. (1873 is the year of the statutes and 200 is the page number). The entry is as follows: Section 1. That the name of Carrie Ella Louisa Engle, of Montgomery County and State of Kansas, be and the same is hereby changed to that of Carrie Ladd Armstrong, and she is hereby constituted an heir-at-law of Benjamin M. Armstrong, Montgomery County, Kansas. Section 2. That the name of Belle Vaughn, of Doniphan county and State of Kansas, be and the same is hereby changed to that of Belle Vaughn Bowers, and she is hereby constituted an heir -in-law of Martin B. Bowers, of Doniphan County, Kansas. Section 3. This act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage. Approved March 5, 1878. I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original enrolled bill now on file in my office.

Heading: Boggs, Henderson H. and Susan, divorced....1860,103(1860 is the year of the statutes and 103 is the page number). The entry is as follows: Be it enacted by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Kansas: Section 1. That the marriage relation heretofore existing between Henderson H. Boggs and Susan Boggs, be and is hereby dissolved, and that the said parties shall have all the rights and privileges of single persons. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage. Approved February 27, 1860.

Mining the Mother Lode of Primary Genealogical Information for Free

by George Archer
McLean, Virginia

Cruising the Net is fine, but nearly everything you find there is a secondary source. Unless it is an image of an original document, someone had to retype the original to put it up on the Net, thereby making it a secondary and not a primary source document. The Net promises, but time and money do not permit, putting up even a tiny fraction of the primary records that might be of interest to genealogists.

Well, now you can get closer to those primary records and you have two choices. You can purchase The Guide to Federal Records in the National Archives of the United States, a 2,428 page 3-volume set of books, or you can get the digital version in approximately two hours by downloading it to your hard disk from the National Archives Gopher Site at:

<gopher://gopher.nara.gov:70/00/inform/guide/>

Gopher is text-based, menu-driven interface still used by many libraries and the National Archives. When you enter the site, you will have nothing but a black and white text page with hot links to a sub-menu of Gopher pages that follows roughly the Table of Contents for the hard copy version.

- ♦ Read this First
- ♦ Preface and Acknowledgments
- ♦ Introduction
- ♦ Record Groups 1 - 99
- ♦ Record Groups 100 - 199
- ♦ Record Groups 200 - 299
- ♦ Record Groups 300 - 399
- ♦ Record Groups 400 - 499
- ♦ Record Groups 500 +
- ♦ Index

The Gopher site version is a word-for-word copy of the hard bound volumes. Volumes 1-2 describe 1.7 million cubic feet of Federal Records in all 20 depositories of the National Archives and twelve Presidential Libraries, not just those in Washington, D.C., as of 1 Oct 1994. All types of records are described including text, electronic, audiovisual. The Record Groups (RG) are numbers assigned to federal agencies and their predecessor organizations with new ones assigned as agency names are created or changed. Each RG Chapter begins with an administrative history of the agency that created the records, and an overview of the extent and location of its records. Each RG narrative includes: a very useful listing of successor agencies; finding aids that include Preliminary Inventories and pamphlets that describe the microfilmed versions of some records. Related records include a list of other agencies and their RG's. For larger RG's the next section summarizes the record type, the city where the records are located and the quantity of records measured in cubic or linear feet.

Thereafter follows a description of the records themselves listing them by: type, dates of coverage and a description of the activities that the records document.

For instance, I wanted to see the original manuscript versions of the Land Offices' land entry maps and surveyors' field notes for the original Northwest Territory in the Seven Ranges and found them in RG 49, Records of the Bureau of Land Management [BLM]. A quick on-line search turned up:

- ♦ "Field notes compiled during township surveys of the public land states of AL, IN, IA, KS, MO, OH, WI, the Indian Territory, and parts of OR and WA, 1785-1946 (in College Park). Field notes and related textual records and maps ("Old Case F File") of state, territorial, and Indian-land boundaries, including notes of the dependent resurvey of the boundaries of a few reservations, 1809-1938 (in College Park). Field notebooks from townsite surveys, 1844-93 (in College Park).

- ♦ "Microfilm Publications: M478, M1325, M1329, T1234, T1240.

- ♦ "Maps (52,324 items): Township plats from surveys made by deputy surveyors supervised by surveyors general in the seven ranges in OH (the first public land survey), AL, IN, IA, KS, MO, other parts of OH, WI, the Indian Territory, and parts of OR and WA, some of which are annotated to show land entry numbers and entrymen's names, 1785-1946 (40,000 items). Township exterior boundary plats showing the perimeter of each township as approved by the surveyor general for most of the public land states, 1786-1910 (7,269 items)."

Lookup of a RG is easy online, but searching for a specific item in a RG by topic using the index is difficult because you will have to search 24 separate letter index files for each item. I decided to download the entire index and about half of the 200+ text files for the RG's I knew had genealogical interest. You can do this in a web browser using these steps: Create a folder dedicated to the files you are about to download. Click on the RG you want and open the file on screen. Next, click on File and select the Save as command to save the file using the default name (e.g. rg049.txt for RG 49) to whatever folder you want to dedicate to about 6mb of material if you download the entire three volumes.

Even if you save fewer RG text files than I did, do save the entire Volume 3, index to Volume 1-2 (NAGIDX*.TXT, where * is a letter of the alphabet). Go into an MS-DOS session and put yourself in the folder (sub-directory) where you downloaded the files. Combine the 24 files into a single file with one DOS command: *copy NAGIDX*. * X*.

This will produce a 2.2mb text file named, "X." that you can rename. Now, return to Windows and use a word processor or heavy duty text editor that can open the entire 2.2mb file. Searching the index offline will lead you to every instance of a specific word. Use the "find" key or feature in a word processor or text editor to find a specific word.

For example, my father homesteaded east of San Diego, CA in the 1930's a mile north of the Mexican border in lands within the Cleveland National Forest, according to San Diego Co., CA deeds. I found the records for his land patents by scanning for "Cleveland." After plowing through many hits on "Cleveland" I found an entry for "Cleveland National Forest 95.9.4"

The "95" in this entry refers to RG 95 (Records of the Forest Service), paragraph 9.4. I discovered that I had not downloaded that particular file (rg095.txt) so rather than going back online, I looked it up in my hardcopy realizing that a disk-based digital index search was a more powerful and thorough search tool than using the hard copy version in Volume 3. Here is what I found:

- ♦ "95.9.4 Records of Region 5 (Pacific Southwest Region)
- ♦ "Textual Records (in San Francisco)....Land status tabular records, 1870-1970 for plats described below under Maps...
- ♦ "Maps (3,135 items in San Francisco): General land Office plats of California national forests, annotated to show land patents, ownership and use, 1870-1970....showing homestead entries, 1915 and land status, exchange and acquisition 1920-60. SEE ALO 95.12." (RG 95.12 was "Cartographic Records (General) 1890-1973" but contained nothing of interest.)

So, from this short foray into the Guide I located the probable records and know that I have to go to San Francisco to see them. I also have a specific RG citation and description I can show the archivists at San Francisco. And better, I can show it to them on a computer screen (or print out) without having to haul 20 pounds of the 3-volume hard copy with me or locate a copy of it at the San Francisco Archives Branch.

You, too, can look up elusive federal records using the techniques above and, even if you don't buy the hardcopy or download Volumes 1-2, use the index offline to search for probable records and then revisit the gopher site to explore RG's with possible records of interest. When you get a hit, save to disk just that RG chapter for future reference when visiting or corresponding with the National Archives in Washington or its many branches. A complete list of the National Archives and Records Administration Repositories appears in the file "intronag.txt" under Table A. Table B. is an "Alphabetical List of Agencies Named in the Titles of Record Groups."

Tepper, Michael

American Passenger Arrival Records: A guide to the records of immigrants arriving at American ports by sail and steam. Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore, MD, 1993. 142p. appendices.

The author states that passenger arrivals records are surprisingly complete except for the colonial and early federal periods. Many of the records identify name, place or country of origin and various other particulars. Chapters are; Colonial period, beginning of Federal passenger arrival records, customs passenger lists, immigration-passenger lists. Many different entry points are included. The two appendices are Hamburg immigration lists and checklist of passenger list publications. The goal of the book is to explain what the records are, where they are and what they contain.

This book is very helpful on the subject but aside from that it is great reading.

It was purchased by the Society and will be shelved in the Helen Osma Room.

Colett, John Philip

Finding Italian Roots: The complete guide for Americans. Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore, MD, 1996. 130p, glossary, biblio, illus.

The author states that "there is little interest in genealogy" in Italy. Therefore he tells you how to make it easier by doing as much as you can in the US. The introduction explains the preparatory research and offers suggestions for getting the most out of Italian records whether in person or by mail. The glossary is to key Italian words followed by an extensive bibliography. Other chapters include civil record repositories in Italy, religious record repositories, libraries and other resources in Italy.

As always a book of this type is very useful in learning how to follow your ancestry.

This book was purchased by the Society and will be shelved in the Helen Osma Room.

Baxter, Angus

In Search of Your European Roots. 2nd edition. Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore, MD, 1994. 292p, index, biblio.

There is a foreward that discusses searching for your ancestors in Europe and an introduction that gives a short history of Europe and a chapter on the LDS Church records. European Jewish records also have a chapter with each including basic information as to records available. The larger countries are given more space.

This is a very interesting, informative and useful volume.

It has been purchased by the Society and will be shelved in the Helen Osma Room.

LOT OWNERS IN OAK HILL CEMETERY LAWRENCE, KANSAS (DOUGLAS COUNTY)

Names listed on the cemetery maps in the Lawrence City Hall (1983). Only the names not written in on the copied maps were included in this list. Some of the names were typed, some were printed and some were written in long hand. I have tried to be accurate but some I could not be sure of. Section 12 was the most difficult as the following letters were so similar.

Longhand: L and T were much alike

J and I " " "

Printed: S.and J " " "

Keep this in mind when using this aid.
Lots that were blank were omitted.

Grace Embers.

INDIAN RELICS

Discovery of Traces of the Mound Builders in This County

Deer Creek-June 9, 1881

To the Editor of the Journal:

I promised you some time since to write you an account of the traces of the Mound Builders found in this vicinity, but wishing farther information on some points have put off doing so until now. My attention was first directed to the subject about a year ago by the report that when Isaac Stull dug his cellar he found the bones of an Indian. Being at Mr. Stull's in the course of a few days, I inquired for what was saved and was given some fragments of true mound builder pottery, the crowns of a few teeth, some worked flint and the blade of a sandstone ax. They were found some three or four months before I heard of them and probably not more than half of the flints were saved. They were buried two and one-half feet below the surface, and in the edge of an open spot popularly termed "Indian fields" by the old settlers. This has shown no indications of any "mounds" within twenty-five years. The remains of two other bodies were subsequently found when digging a cistern adjoining the cellar mentioned, but they were so decayed as to be of little interest. This last winter another skeleton was found on the Shaw place while digging postholes, but was not examined. In digging a well on the same place in an Indian field, at the depth of six feet, there was found a lot of charcoal burnt clay, pieces of pottery and flint, which had been worked, some to an edge and some not finished. Upon making inquiry I find that the valley of Deer Creek from its mouth up for the distance of some four or five miles has furnished a great many arrow heads, knives and axes. These have been picked up in some cases were perfect because of the oddity if nothing else.

In my opinion there is here a rich field for explorations and I shall embrace every opportunity to develop it and will be happy to give your many readers the account of my work from time to time, and will answer any correspondence upon the subject. I do not, however, expect to find much until winter on account of the dense growth of vegetation.

Crops are looking excellent, Some apples in places, but not generally distributed. My trees are quite full, in fact, they have the most on by half of any orchard in this vicinity, and will have about half a crop.

MARRIAGE BELLS

"Wedding of Miss Corina F. Harris and Mr. Fred J. Hill"

It was some twenty-one years ago that one of the editors of the Old Lawrence Republican was one evening invited to go out upon the "California road" and witness the marriage of Mr. E. P. Harris, a young printer then working in the office, to Miss Davidson. It was a pleasant gathering and Rev. Dr. Cordley performed the ceremony. On last Tuesday evening the first marriage in the household then formed was celebrated. A special contributor thus describe it:

The pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Harris, at Glendale, near Lecompton, was the scene of a joyous occasion, on Tuesday evening, May 31st, the event being the marriage of Miss Corina F. Harris to Mr. Fred. J. Hill, of Lecompton.

The beautiful grounds was ablaze with lights from Chinese lanterns, hung in the trees, extending a cheerful welcome to the guests before they reached the house. The floral decorations were beautiful beyond description, the arch between the sitting-room and parlor being draped with festoons and garlands of evergreens and flowers. The "marriage bell," with a horse-shoe beneath, was suspended in the arch. The happy couple took places beneath the bell at half-past eight o'clock, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Richard Cordley, D.D., of Emporia, in a very impressive manner. He was assisted by Rev. H. D. Herr, of Lecompton. The congratulations were heartfelt and sincere---all wishing the youthful couple the happiness they so well deserve.

The bride's dress was of fringe silk, with plaited vest of cream satin. The skirt trimmings were fine plaitings and puffings with apron-front of diagonal folds, heavy cords and tassels gracefully looped about the skirt and basque was shirred at the waist and about the shoulders; fringe cord laced the front over the cream satin vest, finished at the bottom in heavy loops and tassels, with elbow sleeves, the whole elegantly trimmed with cream Spanish lace.

The groom wore the usual black dress suit with white vest.

The bride is not only well known and admired in the neighborhood in which she lives, but also in Lawrence and Topeka, for her amiable disposition and her accomplishments. The groom, whose home is near Lecompton, is a young man of promise and energy and deserving of the treasure he has won.

This occasion was an unusually pleasant one for Rev. Mr. Cordley, he having performed the marriage ceremony for the father and mother of the bride some twenty-one years ago at Lawrence.

Elegant refreshments were served at about 9:30; under the supervision of Mrs. E. P. Harris, who received many compliments for the delicacies set before the guests, and the hospitable manner in which they were entertained.

The love and esteem of the friends of the young couple was shown by the number of handsome and costly presents they received, a list of which we give below: Elegant set of jewelry

COMING TO KANSAS

by

John Walton

The summer of 1856 I was at Mount Pleasant Iowa assisting the engineers in constructing what was called the Skunk River railroad. Mount Pleasant had no railroad. This road went to Burlington, Iowa. One morning coming up to headquarters quite a crowd was in front of the printing office reading bills which said something like this; Ho for bleeding Kansas, speaking of the necessity of men and money to make Kansas a free state. I said, Sam, I guess I will go to Kansas, this was Sam McFarland, who was afterward a Colonel of an Iowa regiment and was killed at the battle of Prairie Grove. He said, all right, I will introduce you to the agent of the Emigrant Aid. The agent was Thomas Eldridge. That night a meeting was held at the Court house. Mount Pleasant wanted to send a company of their own. Cole brothers, Lightning rod men offered to give two horses and a wagon and harness if 10 men could be raised. The citizens offered to furnish provision revolvers, cover for the wagon etc., and call it the Mount Pleasant company. Through the recommendation of McFarland and the other editor of the paper I was appointed to get up the company. I never did get 10 twice I got nine but when news came in saying the Border Ruffians were murdering settlers sending them down the Missouri river on a raft my company kept backing out. Finally when my company got to six I was not only discouraged but disgusted. I went to the editor and said, If you will take three men from Ohio and call it nine, all right, if not, I will join the Eldridge outfit, they accepted. In a few days the railroad was finished and Col. Eldridge, Col. Pomroy, Richard Ralph, Col. Perry Mr. Prouty and others came from Chicago. Pomroy made a speech at the Court House, which was crowded. He spoke of that old bachelor president who turned to be with the South, the rolling prairies of Kansas and the need of making Kansas a free state. The people went wild, cheers, hats thrown in the air, stamped, etc. Well, we were fitted out, teams divided with messes to each wagon. About 250 in all, 225 men and 25 women and children. We could not go through Missouri, went through Iowa, came to Tabour, Iowa. Col. Perry had been our drill master. Gen. Lane drilled us in the afternoon, in the morning it was discovered that Redpath had taken our Sharps rifles which we were to get at Tabour. The Red Shirt Company from Indianapolis swore they would go no farther. Pomroy spoke, it had no effect, we thought Lane had gone on but Col. Eldridge found Lane, introducing Lane said, I never could talk unless I got mad, then I can talk like the devil. But here was a man who could talk. We fell in double line, Jim Lane on a store box to the right of us, Lane spoke of the sacrifices the Kansas men were making, how they took scythes and forks and defended themselves. Finally wound up saying if there is a man here that is not willing to lay down his life for free Kansas let him step out of the ranks. No one stepped out, he said not a damn man, give us a fresh chew of tobacco. We had heard of Gov. Gary proclamation, no armed man could enter Kansas, buried out cannon, crossed the Missouri river at Nebraska City. When we came to Pony creek, Kansas, we found Gen. Cook with 700 men, 5 cannons planted in our road. We naturally stopped. Eldridge expected what was coming and we were each outfit marching with our wagons. They took our arms, Cook and Deputy Frovo Marshall Presten wanted to furnish us an escort, we voted we did not want an escort, could take care of ourselves, forced them to take us prisoners, we were out of rations. Government furnished rations for their prisoners I think about all of our nine went for rations. I was about the last. The old Commissary sargeant said, "My good God, almighty, how many messes of nine is there in this damned outfit. We had provisions enough to last us to Lawrence and they guarded us strictly the first night, and the next night on one side. The next night they went on a half mile and left us to ourselves. Provo Marshall Preston read Gary's proclamation and would stop and explain it as he went along. Old Bob Morrow was there on horseback, he said, "read it as it is and stop your damned commenting on it". Col. Cook didn't want to make us prisoners but we forced them to do it. We came on to North Topeka, which had only one house and that was a log cabin, Gov. Gary met us there and welcomed us as the yeomen of Kansas. About a hundred stopped at Topeka, and 150 came on to Lawrence. A party from Lawrence met us on the way. The Free State hotel had been burned in Lawrence and there was only the little Cincinnati House, and two sod houses down next to the river, one of them called the St. Nicholas.
